

The Home Teacher

Overview

In the LDS Church (lds.org, mormon.org), many men and young men are assigned as home teachers. There are two home teachers assigned to a companionship. Each companionship will have 1 or more families which they are assigned to visit once (1) per month. There is a supervisor which the home teachers report their visits to at the end of each month.

I would like a Pocket PC program that allows a home teacher to maintain the following information:

- Families assigned with their contact information
- Members of each family
- Birthdates
- Appointments/Visits
- Companion contact information
- Supervisor contact information

Main Screen

Preferable I would like a tab form with the following screens:

1. Families
2. Members
3. Appointments/Visits
4. Companion
5. Supervisor

Other screens used for functionality would be:

- Family information screen
- Set appointment screen
- Visit information screen

The method for storing data is optional but I would prefer XML that could be stored in a path specified by the user with a settings form added.

Families Screen

The families screen is the default and should contain a list of all assigned families with their surnames, phones numbers, check box of whether or not appointment has been set up for the current month, and check box for whether or not they have been visited in the current month. Also a button to display more information about the family: address, phone number, note field.

When the check box is tapped to set up an appointment the user would be taken to a date/time selection dialog box to set the date and time of the appointment. This would look similar to a new appointment screen in the Pocket PC calendar program. It would add a new appointment to the calendar and add a record to the visit database.

Members Screen

The members screen will contain a selection box to select the family and also a list of all family members within each family, their position within the family (1 = father, 2 = mother, 3 = child, etc.), gender, birth date, and note field.

Appointments / Visits Screen

The visits screen will also have a selection list to select a family and will display the date and time of each visit and a check box of whether or not this appointment has been fulfilled. By default this list will be sorted by date with the most recent at the top.

There will be a button to click to view more information about the visit. On this new screen the user can change the date and time and add any relevant notes.

Companion & Supervisor Screens

These screens will look much like the family information screen with the companion and supervisor contact information – namely, name, address, phone number, notes. It could even be on the same screen with a drop-down selection list of either the companion or supervisor.
